SERVITE DOMINUM IN TIMORE

What a joy to celebrate our Lord's Nativity with all of you. My first Christmas as pastor of St. Patrick's will certainly be one to remember! Having so many visitors with us is a sincere reminder that St. Patrick's has a special place in the hearts of so many local Catholics. I would like to express my deep and sincere gratitude to all of those who contributed their time and financial resources to make our celebrations so solemn. Christmas is our opportunity to practice what we preach: that our new-born King deserves only the best! This mystery of Christmas is something to be pondered not only in the context of a beautiful Mass, but throughout this whole season of Christmas, indeed throughout our lives!

When I lived in Washington, DC, I was blessed to reside at St. Mary, Mother of God parish, just a few blocks away from the National Gallery of Art. Of the many paintings of the Madonna and Child there, my favorite is a piece from Raphael painted in 1508 called the Alba Madonna. An image is below. The work is striking for many reasons. First, notice how Raphael uses the posture of the Blessed Mother to complement and balance the round frame of the image. The image is circular, and our Lady is at the center, but yet she, our infant Lord and St. John the Baptist all redirect the viewer's attention from the center to the cross. The gaze of all three look upon the cross with a prayerful serenity. Our Lady closes her book of scripture (a sign of God's promise) to look upon cross (the sign of God's fulfillment). Arranged at the feet of our Lady are symbolic plants and flowers: lady's bedstraw for childbirth, cyclamen for love and sorrow, violets for humility, dandelions and red-centred anemones for the Passion of Jesus.

Just as in one celebration of the Mass, so many aspects of our faith are summarized and symbolized, so too, through sacred art we can gain new insights onto the great and divine mysteries unfolding for us in the life of Christ! ~ Fr. O'Brien
