OUR LADY OF PROMPT SUCCOR, HASTEN TO HELP US

Our Father in heaven, through the powerful intercession of Our Lady of Prompt Succor, spare us from all harm during these current times and the hurricane season.

Please protect us, our family, our homes and businesses from all disasters, especially those of nature.

Our Lady of Prompt Succor, hasten to help us. ~ Amen.

FAMILY FUNDAMENTALS

St. John Paul II reflects on the rosary in his Apostolic Letter, Rosarium Virginis Mariae:

"A similar need for commitment and prayer arises in relation to another critical contemporary issue: the family, the primary cell of society, increasingly menaced by forces of disintegration on both the ideological and practical planes, so as to make us fear for the future of this fundamental and indispensable institution and, with it, for the future of society as a whole. The revival of the Rosary in Christian families, within the context of a broader pastoral ministry to the family, will be an effective aid to countering the devastating effects of this crisis typical of our age."

As the domestic church, let us stay fervent in our recitation of the rosary in our homes. As the faithful, we hold a deep responsibility to pray for not only the world, but the family. The family that is threatened from a multitude of angles. In Christ, through Mary, may we not lose sight of our eternal reward; may we perfect our family, our souls, and the whole world through Our Lady's powerful rosary.

~Megan Coote

SERVITE DOMINUM IN TIMORE

At the start of this current “Year of the Eucharist,” I began a bulletin series on the scriptural foundations of our belief in the real presence of Christ in the Eucharist. After a few months on other topics, I’d like to take up that subject again, but from another angle, that of the Church Fathers.

Our faith is rooted in the teachings of Christ and God’s revelation protected by Scripture, Tradition and the Magisterium. These three foundations of revealed truth remind us that our faith is not limited to the strict words on the page of Holy Scripture. But Sacred Scripture, while never to be contradicted, can be expounded and better understood through the ages—a process called development of doctrine. By taking the time to study the exercise of the teaching authority in the early Church, we better understand the ways that the Holy Spirit preserved the deposit of faith, while fostering genuine development by the virtuous use of human intellect. In this light, we can find in the early Church Fathers a reliable guide to the way Sacred Scripture and the oral teachings of the Apostles were understood and taught by their immediate successors.

To begin, I’ll point your attention to the Didache (DID-ah-kay) from about the year 90AD. It is a collection of very early teachings, some of which pertain to the Eucharist. The first citation discusses the one receiving this great gift. “But let no one eat or drink of your Thanksgiving [Eucharist], but they who have been baptized into the name of the Lord; for concerning this also the Lord has said, Give not that which is holy to the dogs.” Already, it is obvious that Holy Communion is no ordinary food. It is only fitting for the followers of Christ.

Secondly, this meal-set-apart is intrinsically connected to the presence of God. “But after you are filled [with the Eucharist], thus give thanks: We thank You, holy Father, for Your holy name which You caused to tabernacle in our hearts, and for the knowledge and faith and immortality, which You made known to us through Jesus Your Servant[...].” This recommended prayer after receiving Holy Communion uses the interesting phrase, “tabernacle in our hearts” to describe what God is doing for us by the Eucharist. Jews of the first century would have understood this phrase very well. It was often used as a way to describe God’s unique presence within the Jewish temple. However, now in the Christian context, the early Church understood the presence of God to now be extended into the very core of those who partake in the Holy Eucharist. ~Fr. O’Brien
