Dear Parishioners,

Every New Orleanian has had the experience of driving down historic St. Charles Avenue. The manicured lawns, stately oaks, and the nostalgia of the streetcars are a delight for both the locals and visitors. Another thing New Orleanians notice is how slowly people tend to drive on St. Charles Avenue—well below the speed limit! I have to admit, when I have somewhere to be I find this frustrating, mea culpa! More importantly, however, I am glad that there is still a place where people feel naturally drawn to slow down even though the culture around us is at full throttle.

Being in a beautiful place has the effect of slowing us down; it stirs within us an appreciation of higher things and provides a bit of rest for our often-busy lives. Just as St. Charles Avenue proves such a place for natural beauty, I sincerely believe that St. Patrick's Church and St. John the Baptist Church provide such a place of divine beauty for the good of the soul. Our churches are a sacred context in which our bodies and souls can feel free to slow down, be nourished by higher things, and feel the rest that comes from God's presence.

Maintaining and restoring these historic edifices is firstly an act of devotedness, for truly God deserves our absolute best. At the same time, our work to preserve these churches is a proclamation to the city around us that God is in our midst waiting to bless us. With this in mind, I sincerely request of each of our parishioners to participate in our Advent Appeals. St. Patrick's is aiming to raise $150,000. The goal is higher this year since we are preparing to undertake the restoration of our plaster ceiling. A recent project has just concluded and the results are pictured below. St. John the Baptist needs to raise $40,000 again this year to tend to the necessities of operating costs. Your generosity is the only way we can be successful!

Each weekend I hear from visitors that the work of beauty we undertake here, both architecturally and liturgically, is especially powerful for the good of the soul. May this good fruit renew our resolve to render to God what is His due, and to persevere in our sacred task! Imploring the Lord's blessings upon you in this Advent season, I remain,

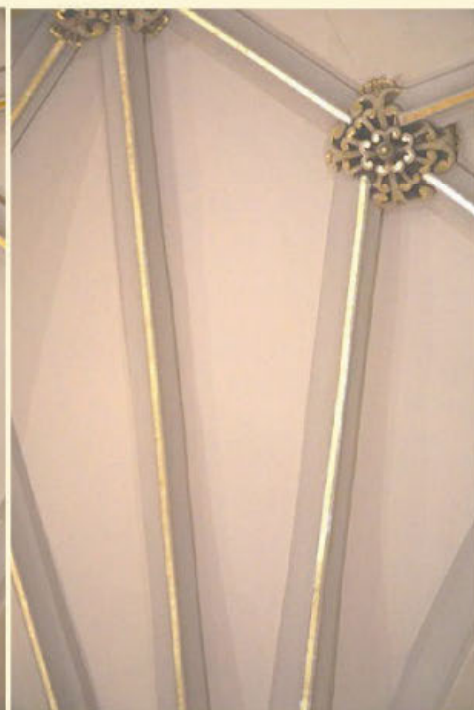

Sincerely yours, in Christ,

Rev. Fr. Garrett O'Brien
