SERVITE DOMINUM IN TIMORE

In this third issue of my bulletin series on the penances of Lent, I would like to reflect today on almsgiving. Two weeks ago, I showed how Lent is an especially powerful time to examine our routines of prayer so as to determine if we can enrich our encounter with God by increasing our time in prayer, or trying a new method of prayer, particularly lectio divina with Scripture. Last week, fasting was shown to be a vital instrument which reorders our carnal passions to cling to what is longer lasting, the things of eternal life. Denying ourselves food is required of us during Lent: to fast on Ash Wednesday and Good Friday by eating only one meal, also by abstaining from meat on the Fridays of Lent. Other kinds of fast can benefit our spiritual lives as well: to govern our intake of technology, leisure, luxuries, or even necessities. Doing so allows us to imitate Christ's own fast and to make a spiritual offering to the Father.

The Catechism says that prayer, fasting and almsgiving form something of a three-part whole when taken together. These three penances allow us to reform our various relationships in a complete way: prayer rightly orders our relationship with God, fasting rightly orders our relationship with ourselves as we direct our passions, almsgiving rightly orders our relationship with others (CCC 1434).

Almsgiving is a well-established practice throughout Scripture going back to the mysterious priest, Melchizedek, who receives one tenth of all the earnings of Abraham in acknowledgement of his special role of service to God. The tradition of the tithe is presented in the fifth precept of the Church, namely that the faithful are obliged to assist with and provide for the material needs of the Church (CCC 2043). Donations toward your own parish church and other charities are both our duty and our personal opportunity to participate in the work of spreading His Kingdom.

Of course, almsgiving not only orients us toward the needs of the Church, but toward the bodily needs of our fellow man as well. With moving simplicity, the Catechism teaches that our material generosity is the necessary result of our access to the Blessed Sacrament. "The Eucharist commits us to the poor. To receive in truth the Body and Blood of Christ given up for us, we must recognize Christ in the poorest, his brethren." (CCC 1397).

Christ Himself gives us clear direction regarding our duty to supply the needs of others. Such an act is not done to be noticed by others (Mt 6:2-4). Instead, to be genuine, our generosity is a response to His love for us and His command. The generosity we show should be both from our monetary means, as well as our own possessions and food (Lk 3:11). This adds a personal dimension of our giving—lest we begin to look down on the needy as inferior or different than ourselves. Not only should we serve the poor because of our own sincere compassion for them, but because Christ has associated Himself with the poor. In His teaching on the corporal works of mercy (Mt 25:31-46), we know that by our service of the needy, it is Christ Himself we serve. In our neglect of the needy, it is Christ Himself we neglect! It's not too late! Take upon yourself a Lenten practice of almsgiving!

~Fr. O'Brien
